SOLDIERS STILL PATROL PLANT

New Controversy Arises Over Suspension Of Three Members Of Strike Committee

(International News Service)

LOS ANGELES, June 11.—A new controversy arose today between army officials and CIO representatives at the North American Aviation company which, still under complete army control, rapidly was approaching full production once more on vitally needed warplanes for the United States and Great Britain.

CIO officials charged, and army spokesmen admitted, that three members of the local union committee which called the strike at North American last Thursday had been suspended.

The army version was that the three men were questioned at length and then escorted from the plant grounds shortly after the strike officially ended yesterday. The strike was suspended indefinitely pending investigation of their strike activities, an army spokesman said.

WASHINGTON, June 11.—Eleven of the nation's huge aluminum plants today remain idle due to CIO strikes as defense officials warned that the disputes threaten shutdown of 90 per cent of all the airplane, tank and gun production in the country.

It appeared that President Roosevelt's renewed declaration that he will order the army to seize strike-bound defense plants if necessary had forced settlement of the disputes, but last minute developments brought continuance of the strikes.

The national defense mediation board announced settlement of the Cleveland strike last night and Alex

Bombs Aimed At New Nazi Warship

Believe Ship Is In Brest Harbor

R. A. F. Bombs Docks In Effort To Disable Mighty German Cruiser

SHIP HAD ELUDED BRITISH PURSUERS

(BULLETIN) (International News Service)

LONDON, June 11.—Royal Air Force planes made a new attempt last night and early today to "get" the new German Cruiser Prinz Eugen, which accompanied the battleship Bismarck in the historic battle that sank the British battle cruiser Hood.

An air ministry announcement said a strong force of R. A. F. bombers attacked the docks at the German-occupied French port of Brest where a German Klasse class cruiser, believed to be the Prinz Eugen, was taken refuge alongside the bombers.

Bombs of the heaviest caliber were declared to have been dropped on the docks and anchorages where the three warship are tied up.

Eluded Mighty Fleet

The Prinz Eugen managed to elude a mighty British fleet that scoured the seas for it after the sinking of the Hood.

British warships and naval planes quickly brought the Bismarck to bay and sank it in retribution for destruction of the Hood, but the speedy new cruiser got away.

For a time it was thought the Prinz Eugen might have dashed far into the Atlantic to raid merchant shipping. Now, however, it is believed to have taken refuge at Brest where the Scharnhorst and Gneisenau have been bombed repeatedly in recent months.

Another air ministry communiqué said German aerial activity during the night was carried out on a small scale, but bombs were dropped on South Wales, causing some damage and a number of casualties, including fatalities.

WATCHMAN SAVES BOY

David Jones, of 714 Cleveland avenue, rescued an eight-year-old boy from death when he was falling off the Ray street quarry cliff.

The lad started climbing the cliff and couldn't go any further as the dirt started giving way. He called for help and Mr. Jones, hearing the call, went for a rope and ran around the other side of the cliff. Mr. Jones threw him the rope and pulled the lad up to safety. After the boy thanked his life saver he told him his name was Jimmie.

STILL AWAITING SINKING DETAILS

possible measures that might be taken if it should be found that the Prinz Moor was sunk without warning in violation of international law.

Not War Cause

However, there is no disposition in State Department quarters to seize upon this incident as a possible casus belli for American entry into the war. Officials consider it highly unlikely that the sinking of this one ship, regardless of how unlawful it might have been, would be sufficient by itself to lead to a state of war between this country and Germany or Italy.

Unless the sinking should prove to have been a particularly inhuman act, it was thought American action would be confined to increased naval protection for shipping on the American side of the South Atlantic.

coupled with a strong warning that further sinkings would not be tolerated, and the reserving by this government of all rights to claim compensation.

The nature of this government's action depends entirely upon the circumstances in which the ship was sunk, it was said. If the vessel was sunk in broad daylight without warning and without any effort to save the 46 passengers and crew, it would be considered a very grave matter. On the other hand, if the ship was sunk at night when identification might have been more difficult, the situation would be somewhat different.

Unless the survivors were able to identify the ship which attacked them, it was believed Germany and Italy probably would deny responsibility for the attack.

PLANE PLANT PRODUCTION IS NEAR NORMAL

of his unlimited emergency proclamation to employ soldiers to reopen a plant ended shortly after 5 p.m. yesterday.

A few moments later army officials at the plant, which normally turns out ten war planes daily and has $200,000,000 in plane orders, announced 3304 workers of the maximum night shift of 3795 had returned to their jobs. The normal night shift is estimated at 3695.

Of the normal day crew 7000 workers, 5100 worked through the day. These figures would raise to more than 10,000 the total normal production force, although the company previously reported it at 9,000.

The strike's last exciting incident occurred a mile from the plant when 3100 CIO members who had held out to the last, voting finally to return, approached the factory driving their cars and singing a labor song.

"He's just a shell of his former self" may mean that operations have removed most of the filling.

The organizations which were not represented directly at the meeting had notified the committee previously so that to the above list there are other organizations to be in line.

Grand Marshal Speaks

Grand Marshal Lester W. McClelland was present at the meeting and outlined the plans for formation and outlined the plans for formation, the line of march and the makeup of the various divisions. The number of divisions will depend upon the number of bands in line. Three bands were definitely in, Tuesday night, the American Legion band, the Croton band, and the Red Coat band which is being provided through the fine co-operation of the Italian-American Societies. There was possibility of one other band being added which would make four divisions of the parade.

Not only will the organizations listed in the line of march but they will also be at the Cathedral on Saturday night at 8:15. William T. Kerr, national president of the American Flag Day Association and Secretary of Internal Affairs William S. Livingston are to be the principal speakers at the Flag Day mass meeting which is open to the public. No admission fee will be charged nor will there be any collections taken or seats reserved.

Ask For Flowers

The decoration of the Cathedral stage is now down in chart form and early Saturday morning the committee in charge will start dressing the stage.

Flowers, lots of them are needed for the decoration and the decorating committee asks that citizens donate flowers to aid. The patriotic motive is being carried out through the medium of flowers and for this reason the committee is most anxious to get a lot of red flowers (roses or peonies), white flowers or blue flowers. In the blue class would come such flowers as delphinium.

Citizens donating flowers are asked to send them or bring them to the store of Cunningham and Weinhardt, opposite City Hall, not later than 4:30 Friday afternoon. They will be cared for over night and sent to the Cathedral early Saturday.

The Cathedral doors will open Saturday night at seven-fifteen. It is anticipated that the seating capacity of the auditorium will be entirely filled.

On the stage will be the Legion Band, speakers, officers of the Daughters of the American Revolution, officers and members of the General Committee, and the Citizens Committee and the artists who will present special music. The stage promises to be a picture according to the members of the decorating committee who are the only ones who know how it will be dressed.

From city and rural districts the reaction to the mass meeting and the parade has been most cordial and co-operative. The Grange expects to have a large representation at the mass meeting. Ellwood City, Bessemer, Hillsdale, New Wilmington, Wampum and Enon Valley will have representations there.

It promises to be quite a night.

CHANGE IN WAR STRATEGY

AS THE terrible war in Europe progresses it is becoming evident that we are on the eve of an important and historic change in military and naval strategy, one which may be as far reaching as the introduction of powder and shot against mailed knights and archers in the Middle Ages.

Time after time a cruiser or a destroyer is being sent to the bottom by the bomb or torpedo launched from an airplane.
The Germans were able to invade and occupy Norway because their superiority in the air prohibited the British navy from functioning as it was supposed to function.

The battle of Crete is another case in point. The British Mediterranean fleet suffered serious losses and was compelled for a time at least to withdraw from the narrow strip of water between Crete and the Greek mainland.

But the crowning indication in the change in modern warfare came with the destruction of the modern battleship Bismarck by aerial torpedoes. The Germans for years have been claiming that the airplane would revolutionize naval warfare and it is an ironical fact that their contention is given sustaining proof by the British themselves in destroying a German battleship largely from the air, the first time in history that such a feat has been accomplished.

When we talk and speculate about a Nazi attack in force on Great Britain we are apt to think this is impossible because of the preponderant British navy. Yet it must be wondered whether or not the main English fleet in the narrow English Channel might not receive greater punishment than the Mediterranean fleet did at Crete.

The fact to be remembered however is that the Germans acquired complete mastery of the air around Crete and hence were able severely to punish the British fleet. But unless they could get this mastery in the British Channel they could not acquire complete mastery of the air around Crete and hence were able severely to punish the British fleet. But unless they could get this mastery in the British Channel they could not carry out a successful British invasion regardless of where the British fleet was located.

Hence military students are becoming more and more convinced that the military airplane is to assume first rank importance in naval and land warfare in the future. This is why Great Britain is constantly calling for more and more airplanes.
It furnishes the best reason too why Uncle Sam should center his defensive efforts on constructing the greatest fleet of aerial fighters and bombers in the world.

FULL CIRCLE TO CAVE DWELLING

Stone Age and other implements unearthed in a cave on the Papago Indian Reservation by Dr. Emil Haury, anthropologist of the University of Arizona, indicate that prehistoric men lived in that communal sanctuary continuously from about 500 B. C. to 400 A. D.

They lived there from choice because it was, to them, a comfortable, pleasant domicile; giving them security against enemies and protection from bad weather.

During 7000 years mankind has made tremendous strides. So much so that many human beings are right back to the point where cave dwelling of a sort offers them the only assurance of safety from the ruthless efficiency of modern bombers. Even that kind of refuge doesn't always suffice.

TANKS BY PLANE

Word from Washington that work is progressing on a light tank for transportation by plane to the battle front, following Germany's employment of such means in the invasion of Crete, further emphasizes not only the growing demand for transport planes but also the multiplying requirements of the Army for pilots.

Latest figures, giving unofficial estimates, put the goal of new fighting planes for the Army and the Navy at 50,000. Auxiliary craft, such as training planes and transports, are certain to swell this total impressively. The need of new pilots will add increasingly to the output of planes in the one category and the use of craft to carry men and tank equipment to the battlefield will call for more and more planes in the other category.

In troop movement the motor car showed the older methods of advancing on foot a clean pair of tires. Air transport already threatens to make motor transport obsolete.

GRADE CROSSING LOUD SPEAKERS

The railroads report a decrease of 22 in the number of grade crossing fatalities in the first four months of 1941 compared with the same period of last year. However, the new number was 632 and 1659 persons suffered non-fatal injuries. In April alone there were 108 fatal accidents at grade crossings.

About 25 per cent of these mishaps were caused by motorists running into the side of a train. Warning signs and alarm bells haven't proved very effective. Only a small proportion of the crossings, compared with the great number throughout the country, are guarded by watchmen or gates.

A newly patented device utilizes a loud speaker, to be installed first only at small stations. It is designed to issue a warning in stentorian tones when a train, frequently concealed by a curve, is approaching an unprotected crossing.

If speeding motorists now pay such scant attention to signs at danger spots, it is doubtful whether they will heed a loud speaker, although its novelty may attract their attention. But if they have any regard for their safety and their companions' safety, drivers approaching crossings where this device is installed will make, in radio parlance, at least a brief pause for station announcements."

A Connecticut woman has collected the autographs of 74 notables on strips of white satin and sewed them together in a "slumber robe." Well, we have heard several notables speak and some of them are conducive to sound slumber.

Nowadays they make lots of fun of old pictures of men with handle-bar moustaches riding bicycles back in the horse and buggy days.
But we still prefer pictures of those bicycles to modern armored tanks as a mode of recreation.

The Parent Problem

By Garry C. Myers, Ph.D.

AFTER YOU MARRY ACT GROWN-UP

Yesterday I ventured to offer some advice to those about to marry. Assuming they are married today, please allow me to speak to them. If you haven't yet been weaned emotionally from your family try to cut the apron strings at once. Otherwise your marriage is headed for the rocks. Don't go to live with your in-laws or your parents. Better for a young married couple to live in a hotel or a single room alone than to dwell in a palace with the parents of either one of them.

Understanding Needed
Please remember that no matter how similar are the families from which you and your husband came, each has brought some family patterns which the other will not like or easily understand. Try to understand these patterns and to make the most of them.

Try to act grown-up. At best you will be very childish in many ways and see childish things in your spouse. Be too big to let little things get you down. Often marital troubles begin over matters too small for children ten years old to quarrel over. Small irritations easily lead to big ones.

Small Vexations
It might help you if, at quiet moments, you would realize how small vexations lessen or destroy your feelings of affection.

Here are some familiar steps toward marriage failure. Small, occasional irritations by the wife and husband toward each other growing into large and more frequent ones, reducing mutual affection, next one spouse or both cultivate interest in another of the opposite sex, at first "innocent," later deliberate, perhaps, resulting in more irritation at the other spouse, less compatibility between them, ending up in divorce.

Avoid Gossip

Nearly every man or woman at some time after marriage, often very early, discovers something in the wife or husband which worries him or her. The temptation then is to talk to an "old friend" or relative about it, who in turn secretly enjoys the gossip and magnifies the matter. Before long, the trouble, however small, may become tragic, even disastrous, to the marriage.

Wiser persons never talk critically of the other spouse to anybody but an expert or some other person who knows to be objective and entirely disinterested.

Solving Parent Problems
Q. Should a parent spank a nine-year-old child who is late getting off to school because she dawdles habitually in the morning?

The World and the Mud Puddles

IT SHOULD END

There are today 1,700,000 citizens employed upon WPA work in these United States. There are about 250,000 young men in CCC Camps. These are strange and startling figures.

The WPA workers might just as well be employed in more remunerative work in private enterprise. The majority of these workers are not skilled workers—of course, they are not skilled workers, but there is need for unskilled workers, just ordinary workers, in nearly every industry working upon national defense projects and why are not these men induced into such employment rather than for the most part causing an unnecessary drain upon the Public Treasury?

As far as the CCC Camps are concerned, why not take the young men from these camps and train them in the Army and thus kill two birds with one stone.

The probable reason for this is that the Bureaucrats operating the WPA Bureau and the CCC Bureau do not want to give up their jobs. They are well paid. There has been no end of opportunity—but it is time that all of this expenditure be cut off.

If citizens holding high office in the several Bureaus are worth their salt, they too can obtain employment in private enterprise. There is no necessity of the taxpayer being compelled to pay them.

CRISIS
"Why is Perkins pacing up and down in front of his house like that?"

"He's awfully worried out his wife, poor chap."

"Why, what's she got?"

"The car."

Why not help farmers the sensible way? If thousands of inefficient shoemakers ruined the market for their products, the government gave them a hand-out?

FORESIGHT

A Scotsman and his wife walked ten dusty miles from their farm to the county fair, the wife lugging the heavy basket that contained their lunch. But her husband was not wholly inconsiderate. Once they were inside the gates he said:

"It's best let me carry the basket now, Mary. We might get separated in the crowd."

A female writer declares that a woman who has enough money to live on comfortably a husband is a luxury and not a necessity. Just the same the gals want the luxury.

Even they who wonder if life is worth living would like to hold on long enough to find the answer.

Howard O. Hunter, National Administrator of the WPA, has announced that a cut of nearly 2 per cent in the WPA rolls will be made by July first, but that will only reduce the number by about 400,000 leaving 1,300,000 still working, inefficiently for the most part, here and everywhere in this country.

Concerning young men, there is a tremendous demand today for young men to be apprenticed to skilled work. The country is discovering in this connection that all men of intelligence become more valuable as they become older and the idea of replacing a man past forty-five years of age for some young whipper-snapper of twenty-five is all wrong for men whose ages range from forty-five up, are the most valuable cogs today in the industrial machinery.

They can teach the young men a lot of things and, fortunately, this is being done now.

Nowadays they make lots of fun of old pictures of men with handle-bar moustaches riding bicycles back in the horse and buggy days.

But we still prefer pictures of those bicycles to modern armored tanks as a mode of recreation.

EVENT OF THE WEEK THE CLEAN-UP-TOONERVILLE COMMITTEE SEIZE THE ROLLER TOWEL FROM THE MEN'S WASH ROOM AT THE TOONER HOUSE

HINTS AND DINTS

Sun sets tonight 7:28. Sun rises tomorrow 4:30.

Flag Day will be Saturday next.

Get ready for it now.

A lot of people, about half of them who take the test, find out they only thought they could drive a car.

CANT YOU COME IN?

Sergeant—"Did you shave this morning?"

New recruit—"Yes, sir."

Sergeant—"Well, tomorrow stand a little closer to the razor."

We don't think Hitler wants to get this country into war. He probably has a good idea it will be the end of him if we do—and it should be.

Strange as it may seem, we have always found human failures more liberal with advice than successful men.

"I'm glad to see you're getting to work on time these days."

"Yes, sir, I bought myself a parrot."

"A parrot? I thought I told you to get an alarm clock."

"I did, but I soon got used to it. Now, I put the alarm clock beside the parrot's cage, and, when the alarm goes off what that parrot says is enough to get the whole block up!"

CRISIS

Counterfeit dimes are reported in circulation. Some cheap skates is trying to get a sentence that would be given for making ten dollar bills phony.

Marines won't like it, but future reports will read: "The parachutists have landed and have the situation in hand."

Note for defense planners: We are dangerously short of landing fields, but we have thousands of good ones for planes with pontoons.

CRISIS

"Why is Perkins pacing up and down in front of his house like that?"

"He's awfully worried out his wife, poor chap."

Answer: Since you realize your deficiency of poise and grace, part of the battle is won. The rest depends upon your own determination to do something about it. So, take the situation in hand and definitely decide that you will no longer have to remain a cringing, slumping, mousey creature who is afraid of his own shadow. Eradicate your shudder slump by using your will power to develop a proper carriage—abdomen in, shoulders back, head erect. If you hold your abdomen in, the rest of your body will automatically assume the proper stance. Practice this several times a day until you perfect your posture. Also when you are in the privacy of your bedroom, practice standing alone with your back leaning on any piece of furniture. You cannot have poise and ease of movement until you can gracefully stand alone and for those who are naturally "leaning towers" home practice will effect a cure.

Put Out Flag On Saturday

Ask For Cooperation Of All
In Observance Of Flag
Day Here

Hang out the flag Saturday, June 14.

From the windows of your home, from your office, from your store or your plant, hang out the American flag.

Saturday is Flag Day, the anniversary of the adoption of the Stars and Stripes by the Continental Congress in 1777. It's the day when Americans should display their colors. A day when Old Glory should ripple in the breeze.

Perhaps you haven't got a large flag. Put out a small one, or a dozen small ones.

Every flag holder along the streets or the city should be filled, every window should have a flag showing.

Rev. William Thornton, pastor of the Epworth Methodist church, is arranging a flag decoration for his church, at the corner of East Washington street and Butler avenue, that will be worth your while driving out to see.

It is the urgent wish of the Lawrence chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, the sponsoring body for the Flag Day celebration, that New Castle be decorated with flags on Saturday. Let's go along with the D. A. R. and make the city a veritable sea of red, white and blue.

COLLECTS FOLKLORE
(International News Service)
MIDDLEBURY, Vt., June 11.—Folklore of 150 years is contained in a collection of 1,371 recorded ballads recently presented to Middlebury college by Mrs. Helen H. Flanders, wife of Ralph E. Flanders, president of the New England council. Starting in 1930, Mrs. Flanders canvassed the hinterlands of Vermont to hear the ballads and record them, sung in natural surroundings. The result is the everyday history of the people of Vermont, sung, by the people themselves.

Yes folk city officials have listened to the plea of C. C. Coulthard, manager of Cascade Park and decided to have constructed a cement wall in which the big pool at Cascade park will be divided. One part will be for bathers and the dry section for "tanners."

According to Coulthard many people ostensibly go to the pool to swim but after a few "ducks" play volley ball or loll about in order to grow a "tan".

WASHINGTON, June 11.—In a new move against defense production stoppages, the senate committee investigating defense, today turned over to draft headquarters in Washington the names and addresses of the 1,700 striking machinists who have tied up 11 San Francisco shipyards, and asked the Selective Service director, Brig. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, to determine if any of them had been granted deferment from compulsory military training.

Simultaneously, the committee directed additional inquiries in an effort to learn if any of the strikers are receiving relief or are seeking jobs on other defense projects in their area. Both the C.I.O. and A. F. of L. machinists unions are involved in the dispute.

The inquiry concerning the draft status of the machinists was based on the announcement by Hershey last Monday that a re-classification had been ordered on all draft registrants who have been deferred because of their civilian duties but who have ceased working.

TEND DOG CEMETERY
(International News Service)

FORT LEWIS, Wash., June 11.—Just off a Fort Lewis road over which army trucks rumble day and night but shut off from post activities by the quiet of a forest glen, is as neat a cemetery as there is in the world. Resting there are "Pop" and "Turk" and "Piff" and "Wolf"—and several dozen others—dog masters of the thousands of soldiers who have been quartered at the big Pacific Northwest army camp. Soldiers who miss their own pets, tend the cemetery with loving care.

Worry Over Lack Of Entertainment Near Army Camps

Fear Moral Standards Of Soldiers May Suffer Unless Changes Occur

TOUR OF CAMPS MADE BY EXPERTS

By JOSEPH A. BORS
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, June 11.—Symbolizing the average youth he is, America's 1941 model soldier works hard at his job, likes good food and plenty of it, enjoys his "shut-eye" and during his leisure hours crowds in as much fun as a playful colt.

That was the consensus of welfare experts representing the United Service Organizations, and newspaper reporters following a 2,000-mile tour of typical military concentrations—Ft. Bragg, N. C.; Camp Blanding, Fla., and Camp Jackson, S. C., whose soldier populations total 150,000.

Briefly, canvass of the group brought forth the following impressions:

The average soldier is not so rowdy as some civilians paint him; he doesn't head for the nearest bar on pay days and week-ends; he doesn't molest "pice girls" on streets.

Heads for Town for Enjoyment

The average soldier does head for town to enjoy himself whenever he can get away from camp; he does like to do some drinking in pleasant company; he does yearn for feminine companionship, usually of the type he is used to "dating" back home.

So far as could be ascertained, army officers at the camps made no attempt to hide the facts concerning conditions in communities near camps or the activities of soldiers. Municipal officials co-operated by discussing conditions freely.

Army officers did not depict the average soldier as either a "nice boy" in bad company or a hopelessly prurient-minded youth. Time and again the officers pointed out to the group that the average soldier, except for his uniform, was plain "Joe Doakes" from New York City or Hanging Rock, Ohio.

According to officers, the soldiers who get into trouble are the same ones who always were in trouble back home.

Locks Facilities

What military leaders, the administration and welfare experts are worried about is the fact that soldiers with high moral standards may drift with the "bad" minority because communities near camps simply can't supply them with the type of entertainment they took for granted in their home towns.

It was pointed out that small communities usually found near army camps cannot accommodate 10,000 or 20,000 soldiers, who stream out of barracks on week-ends in search of entertainment.

Following the tour, representatives of the United Service Organizations expressed the belief they could find a partial solution to the problem. The USO is comprised of the National Catholic Community Service, the Jewish Welfare Board, Federal Council of Churches, Salvation Army, Travelers Aid and the Y. M. C. A.

Seeks to Raise Funds

The aim of the USO is to raise $10,765,000 by popular subscription to provide and administer recreational facilities in the vicinities of camps. These would consist of reading, game rooms and community halls.

In every camp army officers welcomed members of the USO and offered their co-operation with the plea: "We can take care of them at camp, but someone else has to do it outside."

That was the reason Gen. George C. Marshall, army chief of staff, loaned his plane to USO representatives and reporters and urged them to see conditions at first hand, and encouraged them to take some action immediately.

LESTER RAUB AMONG BETHANY GRADUATES

Lester Raub son of Mrs. H. W. Raub of Northview avenue, received his Bachelor of Science degree in biology and chemistry from Bethany College at the hundredth annual commencement program Monday.

While at Bethany Mr. Raub has been active in the French club and Gargoyles, a literary organization. In sports he has been active in track and boxing. His fraternity is the Beta Theta Pi, and he served as recorder for the past year.

At recent meetings of our Rich Hill and Volant Presbyterian Young People's Society of Christian Endeavor we took up the important question, "How to Read Our Newspapers." LETTERS TO THE NEWS

Letters intended for this column must be signed with name and address of writer.

AN APPRECIATION

Rich Hill Manse, Volant, Pa., June 9, 1941. Fred L. Rents, president and general manager of New Castle News, Pa.

Dear Mr. Rents:

At recent meetings of our Rich Hill and Volant Presbyterian Young People's Society of Christian Endeavor we took up the important question, "How to Read Our Newspapers." The many high grade articles and features of your paper were favorably commented upon by many and our young people were especially impressed by your consistent policy of refusing to print any liquor advertisements. It was realized that this just mean very considerable sacrifice of potential financial income to the paper.

At the business meetings which followed the discussion I was authorized to send you the following resolution. "Resolved that we highly commend your stand in refusing to print any and all liquor advertisements, however rewarding, in a financial way, such advertising might be. We also believe that your paper has an unusual number of worth while daily features and articles, including well written editorials and articles by well known columnists."

Above resolution was passed very unanimously by the Young People's Societies of the Rich Hill and Volant Presbyterian churches on Sunday evening, May 18, 1941.

REV. HOMER K. MILLER,

Minister, pastor.

I take this opportunity of congratulating you on the honorary degree of Doctor of Humane Letters being conferred upon you today by Westminster College and trust that you will not only live to complete this your fiftieth year with the New Castle News but also many more years of distinguished service to our country through journalism.

I am, fraternally yours,

H. K. MILLER.

DAILY DOZEN

(From the Medical Society of the State of Pennsylvania)

"Why is the boss so crabby this morning?"

"Oh, he had a bad day on the golf course yesterday."

Some people take their fun too seriously.

Golf is a fine game, giving joy and exercise to millions.

It is played by rich and poor, old and young, men and women.

Like any other sport it can be overdone.

Many golfers lead sedentary lives during winter months.

Early in spring they start swinging, swaying and sweating at golf.

They open the season with the full 18-hole game.

They become exhausted, stiff and sore, not benefited in health.

Sports causing fatigue do not benefit the new players.

Start the new season gradually, playing half a game at a time.

UNsuspected PHYSICAL HAND-ICAP OFTEN FOUND ACCI-DENT CAUSE

One of the most disturbing experiences a doctor has to go through is to be called in to see a fine, healthy child who has been badly injured in an accident. I have had this experience many times in my practise, just as every country doctor has, and the more of these I attend, the more I am convinced that there ought to be more punishments for adult negligence.

I suppose nearly every person has a friend or an acquaintance who seems "allergic" to accidents. I know one such man and his continual moan is "Why does everything happen to me?" You know the kind of people I mean; the ones of whom you say: "My, doesn't Jim have the worst luck?"

I know that in my practise I get accustomed to having some patients figure in accidents over and over. Whenever I get an unexplained call to the Jones home, I say to myself as I gather my instruments: "What's young Johnny done to himself now?" And usually it is Johnny again, with a broken arm or a sprained ankle, or a bad cut. Every now and then, some little Johnny's career is cut off because he has an accident too serious for me to patch him up.

Well, I'm convinced that it isn't just bad luck that dogs these individuals who have all the accidents. I am sure that usually the trouble is with the individual himself. He just doesn't know how to take care of himself.

One of these accident-prone people isn't a good person to have around. In particular such a person is a bad one to have at the wheel of a car when you are a passenger.

I recall one young fellow who lived near me. Again and again, passengers in a car he was driving were brought in to my office suffering from injuries. I finally felt it my duty to talk to his father. I told him I thought there was something wrong with his boy. The father pooh-poohed the idea, he was sure his son was just full of youthful spirits. Nevertheless, I got the young fellow in the office and my observations made me sure his eyes were bad. I induced him to go with me to an eye specialist. He was suffering from a peculiar defect in his sight. The specialist was shocked when he heard that the boy drove at all.

If your child suffers a series of apparent "accidents," it just isn't coincidence. It isn't wise after even one mishap to tell yourself, "Well, it's done and I guess it can't be helped. It was just an accident." There is a cause behind every accident and getting to the bottom of it is a good idea. The next one may be fatal. Anyway, you won't want your child to grow up with careless habits.

Of course, every youngster is going to take plenty of tumbles in his life and healthy young bodies are well equipped to take them. But if your child is continually injuring himself, I think you should do a bit of investigating. See why he takes those falls and if it is a loose carpet, or a loose board, or a dark stairway, then correct the trouble. If it is none of these then have his eyes examined, and give him a check-up immediately. Often these accidents are a warning of a mental upset which can be headed off if attended to at once.

TOMORROW: First aid hints in accidents.

Butler Institution

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, June 11.—A bill enabling the state to create a cancer research sanitorium at the Butler Tuberculosis Sanitorium rests in the senate health committee. Introduced by Sen. Leroy E. Chapman (R) Warren, the measure carries an appropriation of $100,000.

The Butler institution, which was constructed by the general state authority, has never been opened Gov. Arthur H. James has contended that the state could not afford to open the hospital now, while Dr. John J. Shaw, state secretary of health, has stated that it is not needed because adequate facilities for the tuberculosis are available in other sanitoria.

Dr. Chapman pointed out that so-called "surface cancer" now responds favorably to treatment but said that physicians were still unable to affect a cure for "buried cancer."

Dr. Chapman, who is chairman of the senate health committee, indicated he would report the bill from committee immediately and would press for enactment at the present session.

Bill Terry Has Big Headache

Every Time Terry Thinks About Recent Trade He Gets Sick, Cubs Slaughter Giants

BOBBY FILLER Wins THIRTEENTH

By PA. ROBINSON
International News Service Sports Correspondent

NEW YORK, June 11.—The next time Bill Terry sees Branch Rickey coming down the street, the cheerless leader of the Giants probably will move elsewhere in a hurry and with both hands in his pockets.

You will recall that some time ago brother Terry camped on the doorstep of the non-alcoholic member of the Rickey family pleading for some pitching help. And the old Cardinal boss trader, never loath to make a deal, especially if there are a few honest bucks in sight, promptly agreed to do something for his good friend Bill.

So brother Rickey, said to brother Terry, "Okay, Bill, I know you're in a fix and far be it from me to deny a favor to a friend. Tell you what I'll do for you, Bill. I have a great young pitcher named Bill McGee. Now I'll give you this fellow practically for nothing. All you've got to do is slip me somebody who doesn't amount to much—say, Harry Gumbert—and toss in a few bucks on the side and we'll call it a deal."

Cubs Slaughter Giants

"Why, that's great," said brother Terry, thinking happily of the fast one he was putting over on brother Rickey.

So the exchange was duly made and Gumbert promptly went on a winning spree for the Cardinals (and he's still on it), while McGee went into what the medics call a serious decline.

In fact, McGee declined so much that brother Terry is now declining food when he thinks of him. McGee dropped his sixth straight as a Giant yesterday and what a pasting he took. Hank Leiber hit a Homer with three aboard and Bill Nicholson poked another with two on deck and the Cubs, behind Olsen, slaughtered brother Terry's crew, 11 to 0.

Sometimes we think that brother Terry is not one of our better traders. He sent the aforesaid Leiber away some years ago and he also sent fat Freddy Fitzsimmons to the Dodgers under the mistaken impression that the old knuckler was all washed up. No doubt you recall that Freddy was so washed up that he could win only 16 losing but two games last year and this year his record is two wins, no defeats.

Old Fred held the Pirates to six hits yesterday, to win, 4-3, which was a good thing for Brooklyn because another veteran, Lon Warneke, gave the Braves only one hit, the Cards winning, 3 to 0. Emmett Mueller, first batter to face Warneke, singled and thereafter no Philly got a hit.

Reds Top Braves

Meanwhile, the Reds with Johnny Vander Meer working, beat the Braves and moved up to third place ahead of the Giants.

Over on the other wheel, the Yanks walloped the White Sox, 8-3.

with Steve Peek giving only one hit until the ninth and Frank Crosetti hitting a grand slam homer to move the Yanks up to second place over the idle Red Sox who were rained out in St. Louis.

The Tigers put over two in the ninth to beat the Mackmen, 4-3 and the Indians downed the Senators, 4-1. Bob Feller held the Senators to four hits to chalk up his 13th victory.

Profit-Taking Upsets Market

Market Makes Effort To Continue Upswing, Trading Moderately Active

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, June 11.—The advance in the stock market was stalled today as light profit-taking followed an opening extension of yesterday's brisk upswing.

Initial efforts to make it four straight and eight out of the last nine sessions on the upside carried the majority of stocks fractionally higher. Trading was moderately active until the market lost headway on the advance, then turned extremely quiet.

Stocks, recovered from a modest first-hour decline to show a mixed trend. U. S. Steel and Bethlehem were up fractions, while Crucible and Youngstown Sheet & Tube were down as much.

International Paper preferred slipped a point at one time and the common dipped fractionally. American Telephone also was noticeably soft, losing almost a point.

Most coppers, motors and electrical equipments displayed an easier tone. Elsewhere in pivotal sections price changes were mixed and dealings comparatively dull.

Dow Chemical, which failed to sell in yesterday's climb, ran up 3 points on its opening sale. Monsanto gained better than a point, but Allied and Union Carbide eased.

Loft, Amerada and Atlantic Gulf & West Indies preferred, all at new highs for the year, were independently strong.
